

Green Acres, Kemberton, Shifnal, Shropshire TF11 9LF

Organic Farmers & Growers Ltd are pleased to announce that National Organic Cereals 2013 will be held at Green Acres Farm, Kemberton, Shropshire.

Our hosts, Mark and Liz Lea, produce a number of organic cereals, make compost from local authority collected green waste and run a herd of organic Hereford cattle. They include educational access as part of their farm management plan with 52 school visits to the farm in the last year alone!

National Organic Cereals is the UK's largest one-day event dedicated to organic farming. It draws an audience made up of existing organic producers, those with an interest in finding out more about the opportunities in the sector, as well as experts and suppliers from across organic food and farming.

Booking is essential, we try to fit in all those who come along but do remember we want to provide a seat and a meal for all so if you want to attend National Organic Cereals 2013, please, book in advance.

A great speaker line-up for 2013 includes Michael Marriage of Doves Farm. Charlotte Smith, of BBC Radio 4's Farming Today, will chair the panel discussions and the farm walk will take in aspects including agri-environment schemes, seed varieties and practical demonstrations.
